WELCOME TO ISOPS XI

International Symposium on Phlebotomine Sandflies

With great pleasure, we inform you about the organization of the international symposium ISOSP XI, which will take place from September 9th to 13th in Portorož. The symposium will be dedicated to the latest achievements in the fields of parasitology, microbiology, and medical entomology.

ISOPS XI will bring together leading world experts and researchers from the mentioned fields, with the aim of exchanging knowledge, innovations, and experiences that are of great importance for progress in human and veterinary medicine.

The event is organized by the Department of Biodiversity of the Faculty of Mathematics, Natural Sciences and Information Technologies of the University of Primorska (UP FAMNIT).

LOCATION

ISOPS alternates between Europe, Asia, and one of the countries in South or North America, and it is an exceptional honor for us that Slovenian entomologists have been chosen to organize the 11th symposium. The event, expected to host 200 leading biologists, pharmacists, physicians, and veterinarians from around the world, will contribute to a rich exchange of knowledge and encourage further development in research in the field of medical entomology.

The central location of the event will be in Portorož at the Faculty of Tourism Studies – Turistica of the University of Primorska.

During the symposium, an excursion to the Škocjan Caves will also be organized, the first monument in Slovenia inscribed on the UNESCO World Heritage List, as well as visits to Ljubljana and Bled.
